

GERMAN CONFERENCE AT HARVARD

Addressing Global Challenges: Directions for a New Decade

We hereby cordially invite you to attend the German Conference at Harvard 2010.
Please save the date: February 19-20, 2010.

Between keynote speeches and panel discussions we invite our guests to effective networking and meaningful dialogue over lunch, an evening reception, and a closing concert and party on Saturday night.

Confirmed conference speakers include:

- Annette Schavan, Federal Minister of Education and Research
- Juergen Kluge, former head of McKinsey Germany and future CEO of Haniel
- Claus Kleber, anchorman of Germany's leading daily TV news program "heute journal" on channel ZDF
- Kent Nagano, Music Director of the Bavarian State Opera
- Matthias Kleiner, President of the German Research Foundation
- Photographer Peter Badge, who shot the world-famous photo series of all living Nobel Laureates

The conference will feature unique Keynote Addresses and six Panel Discussions in business, politics, science, and society. High-profile thinkers will address a wide range of topics:

- Innovate or Bust
- Scaling Renewable Energy: Mega-Projects vs. Decentralized Solutions
- Redesigning Health Care from Scratch
- Afghanistan - and no End?
- Peaceful Revolutions: Lessons from Berlin 1989?
- Where is the next Harvard? Future Excellence in Scientific Research

For further information, please visit our website at: www.germanconference.org
We will write again when registration opens in a few weeks.

We hope to welcome you on February 19-20, 2010 at Harvard!

Best regards,
The Organizing Committee of the German Conference at Harvard 2010